

Work Study Job

Job Title:	Human Resources Marketing Work Study (Fall Quarter)	Organization:	South Seattle College Human Resources
Hourly Rate:	$21.30	Supervisor:	Sarah Macfarlane

Job Description

Role and Responsibilities

The South HR Team is looking for a work study student who can assist in project specific marketing and graphic design needs during the Fall Quarter, specifically around the Giving Tree initiative. The need for this individual will not be just creating marketing materials but also taking charge and working on partnerships both in the college and potentially outside as well to increase donations and student engagement.

Educational Benefits

Educational Benefits would include direct practice using art and graphic skills to create promotional literature. Also will promote collaborative working and creative thinking. With a limited budget, this position will challenge a student to think outside of the box while honing their skills.

Preferred Skills

Work study Student should have some experience in creating digital marketing materials such as flyers, Instagram ads or promotions, or some other background in art/graphic design.

Examples of work will be requested with resume.
